

Access highly subsidised Counselling services

Australian Counselling Service (ACS) provides:

Counselling support for a range of concerns including relationships, stress, loss & grief, parenting, families, youth and wellbeing.

Counselling sessions from anywhere in Australia through a secure telehealth platform, or in person at ACS locations.

Fully supervised therapists in advanced stages of their training, working from contemporary best-practice modalities and frameworks.

Affordable sessions at just $49 per session – less than half the cost of the out-of-pocket cost with a psychologist under a mental health care plan.

Do you or someone you know need subsidised counselling services?

AIPC's clinical counselling division, Australian Counselling Service (ACS), provides high quality – and highly subsidised – counselling services to the general public.

ACS's mission is to make quality mental health care services available to everyone. We achieve this by delivering quality care from just $49 per session.

Sessions can be booked through the ACS website www.acscounselling.com.au, calling 1300 374 033 or emailing info@acscounselling.com.au

AIPC and ACS look forward to supporting mental health and wellness.
